Open Cities for All: Empowering Young Visually Impaired People

Supported by:

Erasmus+ / Youth Participation Activities

EU Youth Programme Priority:

Participation in Democratic Life

Topic:

Youth Participation / Promoting Participation for All

Youth goals:

Inclusive Societies, Space and Participation for All

At a five-day conference in Romania, young people with and without disabilities stood together to call for a more inclusive society. Meeting in the gorgeous city of Cluj-Napoca, delegations from Romania, Poland, Portugal, North Macedonia and Lithuania agreed on proposals to create a more accessible environment for visually impaired young people. Their plans were presented to the decision makers of the municipality!

What is Participation for you?

“Involving youngsters in all aspects of the community life, at a local, national and - with the help of this project - European level as well. Our project shows how a clear plan to build relationships between young people and decision makers can foster real change and achieve concrete results.”

Gabriel Nagy PROJECT COORDINATOR

Wow!

With their 26 proposals, this project helped to promote young people's ideas and improve visually impaired people's lives! In addition, the project participants have also created a best practice guide for all those who want to implement a similar project. If you have a great idea but you have never organised an international meeting about social inclusion, this is an ideal resource to help you get started.
