Bring together ten extraordinary people with an idea to improve their community, and lots of coffee. The result: a café with a difference! Addressing the discrimination faced by young disabled people, this solidarity project shows how working together can build new friendships and overcome prejudice.

What is Participation for you?

“For me, participation is all about having an idea and working with others to make it happen. For example, when I say to leva who is a youth worker that we need music in the coffee shop, she brings a music player. My message to young people is simple: ‘Try it! If I can do it, you can do it too!’”
